PLACID PLACE

Spring and summer escapes to beautiful Lake Placid in upstate New York have been on the calendars of elite families since the age of the classic robber baron Adirondack lodges. The four-year-old Whiteface Lodge, a Leading Hotel of the World, just minutes from the village of Lake Placid, offers a new generation's take on the area's hewn timber vibe. Gorgeous residential accommodations feel like "Colorado in the Adirondacks," and the lodge's crack concierge team will introduce you to Lake Placid's Olympic training facilities (see promising athletes ski-jump from synthetic snow ramps into swimming pools). Reserve the property's exclusive four-bedroom Presidential Suite (the site of at least one important military confab and many VIP wedding nights), chock full of hunting memorabilia (from $2,000 to $6,000 a night depending on season).
